Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

As we continue to focus on the four last things as the liturgical year draws to a close, a couple of reflections may help to shed a little more light on the idea of our particular judgement upon our death. The Catechism states: "Death puts an end to human life as the time open to either accepting or rejecting the divine grace manifested in Christ. Each man receives his eternal retribution in his immortal soul at the very moment of his death, in a particular judgement that refers his life to Christ: either entrance into the blessedness of heaven, through a purification or immediately, or immediate and eternal damnation" (§1021-1022).

A homily from the 2nd century, found in the Liturgy of the Hours for Tuesday of the 32nd week of Ordinary Time also sheds some more light on this idea of judgement: "When a potter is making a vessel and it becomes misshapen or breaks in his hands, he shapes it again; but once placed in the oven, it is beyond repair. Now the clay in the craftsman's hands is an image of ourselves, and it teaches us that, while still in this world, we must wholeheartedly repent of sins committed in the body and make it possible for the Lord to save us while there is time. When we have left this world, we shall no longer be able to repent and confess our sins." We will continue to explore the four last things this weekend and next.

I will be away on retreat this coming week. Every priest is required by canon law to go on a five-day retreat once a year. I will be away Monday through Friday this week with the Franciscan Sisters in Mishawaka. There will still be the normal Mass schedule here this week as visiting priests from nearby have graciously offered their time to cover for me. Please keep me in your prayers and know that I always hold you in my prayers as well.
